BIO:

Marko Gošović is a vice dean of Faculty of Visual Arts at University Mediterranean, and hold a master degree in audio visual production from the Faculty of Visual Arts (University Mediterranean), where he currently works as a vice-dean and a teaching assistant and soon he will become an assistant professor for the courses related to creative industries, digital arts, new media, photography and wearable technology (I'm the co-founder of the Montenegrin-American start-up "The Badger"). His academic career, the general understanding of visual arts which he got through work at the University and a two-year practice of assisting in teaching the courses History of Art and 20th Century Art, professional work in the production of audio-visual content on other courses at the Faculty, and long experience in composing and experimenting with music, made him think, and then explore the general interdisciplinary relationship between art and other related disciplines.
